

Turn
off water
when brushing.

It's easy to brush off any thoughts that California could have a water shortage. But we do. Water is in limited supply and it's up to all Californians to care for our most precious resource. Turn off the faucet when you brush your teeth and you'll save three gallons a day. The water you save today will be there tomorrow, when we really need it. It's easy to make a "nice save."
